Section 2 · Hybrid shifts at Mill and Co

Questions 15–27. The text is a workplace notice.

From 1 May, floor staff may work one home day each week. The home day cannot be Monday, because that is when deliveries are checked, and it cannot be the day before your own holiday. You must name the day on the shared sheet by noon on Wednesday of the previous week.

Home days are for quiet tasks: orders, the returns log, and emails. They are not for the saw, and they are not a day off. If the network fails, come in. Do not wait to be called. The supervisor will mark the day as worked only if the returns log is updated before 4 pm.

New staff cannot use the scheme in their first 60 days. Anyone already on a warning for lateness is also excluded until the warning ends. The trial runs until October, and the committee will read the logs before deciding whether to keep it. Questions go to Ruth on the goods desk, not to the director.

Questions 15–21

Do the statements agree with the notice? Write YES, NO, or NOT GIVEN.

15. Staff may take a home day on Monday.

16. The chosen day has to be entered before the previous Wednesday noon.

17. A home day can be used as a day off.

18. If the network fails, staff should wait for a phone call.

Section 3 · Mending the field walls

Questions 28–40.

The stone walls around Millmarket were not built as scenery. Farmers stacked them to keep sheep on the thin grass and to put somewhere the stones that the plough turned up. A well-made wall has two faces and a heart of small fillings. Without the heart, the faces look solid and fall in the first hard frost.

Most of the walls still standing were last rebuilt in the 1950s, when a grant paid for the stone but not for the labour. Families did the lifting themselves. That is why some stretches run straight for a few metres and then wobble: the work stopped at dusk and started again with a different pair of hands.

The current repair gang meets on the second Sunday of each month, unless the ground is frozen. New volunteers are shown the heart of the wall before they are allowed to touch the face. The gang lead, Cora Bell, will not take anyone who cannot stay for the whole morning, because a half-finished lift is dangerous to the next person. Tools are stored in the old milk shed. Bring gloves. Boots are lent.

There is an argument about wire. Some owners want a fence on top of the wall so that lambs cannot scramble. Bell refuses. Wire cuts the look of the wall and, in her view, teaches the flock to push. She would rather add a third course of stone. The parish has money for that course this year, and the decision will be reviewed after the lambing count in June.

Questions 28–34

Write TRUE, FALSE, or NOT GIVEN.

28. The walls were built only to look traditional.

29. A wall without small fillings can fail in a hard frost.

30. The 1950s grant paid for labour.

31. Every stretch of wall from the 1950s is perfectly straight.

32. The gang meets every Sunday.

33. Cora Bell lives in the old milk shed.

34. The parish can pay for an extra course of stone this year.

Questions 35–38

Choose the correct letter, A, B, or C.

35. New volunteers first learn about
    A the heart of the wall.
    B how to fix wire.
    C the lambing count.

36. Bell refuses volunteers who
    A do not own boots.
    B cannot stay for the whole morning.
    C have never farmed.

37. Why does Bell refuse wire?
    A It is too expensive this year.
    B It spoils the wall and teaches sheep to push.
    C The milk shed cannot store it.

38. The wire decision will be looked at again
    A after the June lambing count.
    B every Sunday.
    C when the grant of the 1950s ends.
